

The United States Natural Gas Fund® LP (UNG) is an exchange-traded security that is designed to track in percentage terms the movements of natural gas prices. UNG issues shares that may be purchased and sold on the NYSE Arca.

UNG's Objective – The investment objective of UNG is for the daily changes in percentage terms of its shares' net asset value ("NAV") to reflect the daily changes in percentage terms of the spot price of natural gas delivered at the Henry Hub, Louisiana as measured by the daily changes in the price of the Futures Contract on natural gas traded on the NYMEX that is the near month contract to expire, except when the near month contract is within two weeks of expiration, in which case it will be measured by the futures contract that is the next month contract to expire (the "Benchmark Futures Contract"), less UNG's expenses.

UNG's Target – Natural Gas is one of the most important physical commodities in the global economy. Natural Gas futures are one of the most actively traded futures contracts and represent the primary US benchmark for natural gas.

UNG's Portfolio – The portfolio consists of listed natural gas futures contracts and other natural gas related futures contracts, forwards and swap contracts. These investments will be collateralized by cash, cash equivalents and US government obligations with remaining maturities of two years or less.

Important Considerations

- UNG® is not a mutual fund or any other type of Investment Company within the meaning of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, and UNG is not subject to regulation thereunder.
- This investment is not suitable for all investors.
- Commodity trading is highly speculative. Commodity prices and futures generally are volatile and are not suitable for all investors. UNG is speculative and involves a high degree of risk. UNG is likely to be volatile and could suffer from periods of prolonged decline in value. An investor may lose all or substantially all of an investment in UNG. Funds that focus on a single sector generally experience greater volatility.
- The Fund is not operated in a fashion such that its NAV will reflect the percentage change of the price of any particular futures contract as measured over a time period greater than one day. It is not the intent to operate the Fund in a fashion such that its per share NAV will equal, in dollar terms, the spot price of any particular futures contract.
- There is the risk that the daily changes in the price of UNG's shares on the NYSE Arca will not closely track the changes in the price of natural gas. If these correlations do not exist, then investors may not be able to use UNG as a cost-effective way to invest indirectly in natural gas or as a hedge against the risk of loss in natural gas-related transactions.
- UNG could terminate at any time and cause the liquidation of your investment which may upset the overall maturity and timing of your investment portfolio. An unanticipated number of redemption requests during a short period of time could have an adverse effect on the NAV or UNG.
- UNG may not earn trading gains sufficient to compensate for the fees and expenses that it must pay, and as such, it may not earn any profit. You should not invest in UNG if you will need cash distributions from UNG to pay taxes on your share of income and gains of UNG, if any, or for any other reason.

- Shares of UNG may be purchased or sold throughout the day through any brokerage account which will result in typical brokerage commissions. Investors buy and sell shares in the secondary market (i.e., not directly from UNG). Only authorized purchasers may trade directly with UNG in minimum blocks of 100,000 shares.
- K-1s will be available for tax reporting purposes. You may download them electronically through a link on each fund's website.
- * On March 8, 2011, there was a 2-for-1 reverse share split, and on February 21, 2012, there was a 4-for-1 reverse share split in UNG. Historical shares outstanding and net asset values have been adjusted to reflect these reverse share splits.
